

Mattan Griffel

Adjunct Assistant Professor of Business
Decision, Risk, and Operations

Biography

Mattan Griffel, a recipient of the Dean's Award for Teaching Excellence, is a Y Combinator-backed entrepreneur, and the Co-Founder of One Month, which offers affordable online bootcamps that teach anyone how to code in one month. Mattan was selected as one of Forbes' 30 Under 30 in Education.

Mattan teaches and advises on entrepreneurship, growth hacking, online education, and learning to code. He has advised companies like Pepsico, Bloomberg, GM, NYSE, and JPMorgan, spoken at New York University, Cooper Union, The School of Visual Arts, Parsons at The New School for Design, Singularity University, The Downtown Project, First Round Capital and Social Media Week, and has been featured in The New York Times, Forbes, BusinessWeek, MIT Technology Review, Huffington Post, Mashable and The Next Web.

Mattan studied Philosophy and Finance at New York University and wrote his thesis on the metaphysics of consciousness.

